Lydia's Rest Home Closes Doors at 18

I cannot say "it was closed", that is too impersonal. There was nothing impersonal about Lydia's Rest Home. It was a home of love, consideration, peace and comfort for the fifty family members who have lived there. Some 80-year-old children, some happy teenagers in their early nineties. Some ill and suffering, keen minded and grateful. All of them mothered as tenderly, devoutly as any mother could. Fed with delicious food, the best money could

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith were invited to go with Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Muir to Springville to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gern Lloyd for a pre-Thanksgiving dinner while Mrs. Mary Huff of Idaho was in Utah. Mrs. Audrey B. Lindsay and children joined them for this happy time on Saturday.

The Forget-Me-Not DUP Camp will meet on Monday, November 17 at 2 p. m. at the Multipurpose Room at the Courthouse where Carroll Duke will give the lesson and Grace Viebell will give a history. The hostesses will be Melba Chapman, Alta Coleman, Velma Duke and Mabel Jorgensen.

Through the week, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Lindsay, Bill Lindsay, Blanche Frisby, Mr. and Mrs. Val Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Faush Olivere came from out of town to see Hal Lindsay at the hospital.

buy. Nicely cooked and artistically served.

It was a clean, fragrant home. Sunbeams shining through the South windows turned silver hair to gold and pained faces to smiles as it poured into the living room where they were sitting or peeked into bedrooms where they laid. Lake Creek flowing gently by the North side of the house lulled them to sleep.

There was laughter and gentle visiting by family members who were always welcome and by the "Rest Home Mothers" who cared for them night and day.

Lydia Hausey dreamed of a lovely home for the aged. Opened it January 17, 1961. Several blessed women assisted her. Ethel Johnson who wished she could rock them in her arms — she loved them so much. Zella Blackley, Irene North, Elva Casper, Bonnie Casper and others who came for shorter periods, but all brought compassion to the precious ladies, doing more for them than their children could at home.

When thirty-four of their numbers were called home by death, they were mourned by their Rest Home Mothers as deeply and sincerely as by their own families. Always they each contributed one dollar to help buy clothes.

The reputation of this home spread and patients came from Idaho, California, Logan, Salt Lake, Tabby and, of course, our entire valley.

The House was too small — thousands of dollars were spent to meet requirements — five bedrooms, a kitchen, bath, utility room and new furnace were added.

Now the doors are silently closed, seven of the nine patients will go to the Wasatch Co. Hospital. Carol Duke is going with them to help them feel the tender "at home" feeling they have enjoyed.

Lydia, our community joins in gratitude for your dedicated devotion to your fellow men. May you know the joy that comes from unselfish service.

The record of the members of the Armed Forces of our great country shows that one or more of your family has responded to the call to arms. Heber City is conscious of its debt of gratitude to these brave sons who now dot the map of continents and the seven seas.

Little has been done, officially, to show that appreciation. Little, indeed, can be done to adequately demonstrate our deep thanks to our soldiers and sailors who are out there fighting to preserve OUR liberty, OUR freedom, and OUR homes.

We who are less affected shall not count as sacrifice the little things we are asked to go without; nor complain at the small things we are required to do. These appear as nothing when considered in the light of the "larger measure" THEY are giving.

The City Council pays tribute to you parents and wives who have given a son or husband to Uncle Sam. We know that despite your anxiety and your tears that you must feel a solemn pride to have made this contribution to guarantee the security of our firesides.

We enclose, herewith a certificate for your loved one, designed to prove that, though we cannot repay, we have not forgotten. We feel that the boys would want to preserve them. If your soldier or sailor is in the states you might wish to send the certificate to him. Otherwise it may be better to hold it. In any case we desire that, ultimately, it gets into his hands.

At this Christmas time we extend to you and yours our sincere good wishes. We look forward, with you, to the return of peace to a world now torn with war, to the day when your loved one shall be restored to you.

Sincerely yours,

Heber City Mayor and Councilmen

93rd Birthday

Zella Davis Blackly will celebrate her 93rd birthday, Thursday, July 8th. She was born in 1889 to Wm. H. Davis and Elizabeth Cummings at the Wm. Davis home at 212 W. 200 N. which Jay Swain and wife now own.

During her early life she lived at Elkhorn on a ranch which the Davis family purchased. On September 1, 1808 she married George A. Blackly and they lived on the ranch and helped run it. They had 4 boys; Rex (who lives with his mother), Emmett, Ogden, and Don and DeMar (both deceased).

When the boys were old enough to attend school, the Blacklys purchased a home at 293 N. 100 E. across the road from the old North School, which Zella still occupies. Mr. Blackly died August 21, 1951.

After Mr. Davis died, Zella's mother sold the ranch and built a new home across the street from Zella's home. You could see Zella crossing the road any time of the day to visit with her mother or to just see if she was OK. They spent 17 enjoyable years together before Mrs. Davis died in 1959.

Zella was a very faithful worker in the Primary organization of the LDS Church. She served as a teacher, ward president, and stake board member. She was a member of the Wasatch County Daughters of the Utah Pioneers in 1958 when they published their book, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains". She worked in Lydia Hausey's Rest Home for 16 years, often attending to the needs of those who were younger than she.

Anyone who knows Zella can testify to her perfection as an immaculate housekeeper and cook, especially her pie making. She is such a cheerful person, a joy to visit and she loves to live in Heber City and welcomes a visit from her many friends.
